

Anaesthesiologist – Invercargill– New Zealand

Submitted on: 04/05/2019, Reference number: 2019086

End date: 04/08/2019

Location:

Invercargill is the most Southwestern city in New Zealand. The city is also one of the most southerly cities in the world. Invercargill has about 50,000 inhabitants and is mainly the trade centre of the South Island because of its harbour. The city lies on the Oreti River, which with its 170 kilometres is one of the most important rivers in the region. Invercargill has a mild oceanic climate, which means that the summer temperatures are around 20 degrees. The average temperature in the winter is around 5 degrees. Due to its southern location, the city has around 16 day hours in summer and 8 in winter.

The hospital is located in this region and is part of a bigger network that covers a big part of the South Island of New Zealand. This network offers care for a population of 315.000 people. The Anaesthesiology department offers various services such as, pre-operative assessment, obstetric analgesia and resuscitations among others. Furthermore, the department contributes heavily to the management and treatment of Intensive Care patients.

Job Description:

On behalf of this hospital, we are looking for an anaesthetist for a permanent, fulltime (1.0 FTE) position.

This position will involve the successful candidate in the pre-, intra and post operative aspects of treatment of his/her patients.
